From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, August 5, 1869. The Present Editor of the "Daily Times" is making for himself a name which the versa tile paragraphist who gets up the "Minor Topic" column in that paper will not willingly let die. He is introducing a foreign, not to say French style, among the type, and evincing an utter contempt for the immunities that have hitherto been conceded to capitals. The characteristics which distinguish the "Minor Topic" column have been virtually abolished, and the wit and wisdom which its editor has been wont to expend upon it are forced to put in an appearance under circumstances that do not always present them to the public in the most favorable light.

Mr. Feehter Not Coming. After all the talk about the coming of Fechter to this country, and Mr. Dickens' "international" article about him in the August Atlantie, it is not at all probable, in the present aspect of affairs, that he will come. Yesterday, Messrs. Jarrett and Palmer, of Niblo's, between whom and Mr. Fechter negotiations had been pending, finally refused to accede to his terms. The difficulty is not that his pecuniary demands are so high, for these do not exceed Mr. Jetferson's, but the conditions he insists upon with respect to the plays to be represented, the actors to support him, and the circumstances under which he is to be announced, are so arbitrary and dogmatic that Messes. Jarrett and Palmer, after a great deal of pious cogitation, thought it best to let him drop. Mr. Feehter is therefore out of the question at present, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. I have a most reliable little bird which whispers this intelligence into my ear, and which never sings a faise note.

An Interesting Scene took place yesterday morning in the Tombs Police Court, before Justice Dowling. The complainant was one Jane Jones, who charged Miss Walters with stealing from her five dollars worth of patchwork. Miss Walters is a debonnaire blonde, with hair translucently tawny, and a very plausible way with her.

"What makes you think the prisoner stole the patchwork?" asked the judge. "O jedge! I know she did. She's just up to them sort of things."

"What makes you think so?" "Because she boards in first-class boardinghouses, in the best rooms, and don't sile her fingers with no work."

"Does she change her boarding-house often?" "Ah! don't she, jedge? That's jest where it is. Every three or four weeks, I should say." "Does she pay her bills?"

"Yes-out of what she gets off other people. She never leaves her boarding-house without bringing a suit against the landlady for stealing her clothing, or something. She said she was a member of the Sorosis this time, and-"

"All this has nothing to do with her stealing your patchwork. Did you see her steal it?" asked the indue.

"No, jedge." "Have you ever seen it in her possession?" "No, jedge."

"Miss Walters," asked the justice, turning to the young lady with the freekled hair and yellow complexion, "how is this about your changing your boarding-house so often?" "Who's got a better right, your honor? I pays my bills, regular. If I get cold hash-' "How long have you been in this country?"

"More 'n a year."

"Married?" "No. sir."

"Work at anything?"

"No, sir: I leave that to the married ones," "Always pay your board bills?"

"It 'ud be a good thing if others paid 'em as ounctual. "How many places have you boarded at?"

"A dozen, more or less. But if I get cold

"Well, I dismiss the case. Only I advise you to stick to one place for a longer time."

"Thank you, sir. But if I get cold hash when I ask for hot hash, I'll see them dog-goned but what I'll leave it!" And with these words, having, like Mrs. Poyser, "had her say out," the lover of hot hash shuts down very strong upon delinquent members, but even she does not strike as much terror to their souls as she did in days of yore. Mrs. Love has sent in a letter of resignation, the cause of which is the death of a rich relative who left her some property on condition she would never more have anything to do with the Sorosis. It is true that Mrs. Love afterwards hinted that this resignation was capable of being construed into an act of irony; but, if so, the irony was not much of a success, for it awakened but few smiles and very considerable vituperation. Mrs. Wilbour, whose fiercest tornadoes of invective and sarcasm are about as destructive as lamb's breath wafted over a pail of new milk, made some extremely unkind remarks about Mr. Greeley. She thought that he was simply blind, and that it was wrong to mock his infirmity.

A firm in Maiden lane, of the name of A. M. Hays & Co., have anticipated a popular demand by erecting in front of their store

A Gold Indicator.

The indicator is placed upon a pedestal ten feet high, and will faithfully record, by telegraph from the Gold Room, the changes in gold. The gold indicator is a great need, which has been very extensively felt in that indefinite way which is none the less intense because it does not readily find expression, and the merchants in and near Maiden lane will abundantly appreciate the liberality and discernment of the Hays firm.

The Bogus Newspaper Correspondent who bums for his meals, and unites the obsequiousness of a well-bred waiter to the cheek of a Cuban fillbuster, is spreading himself this season more than ever before. The watering-places around New York he infests to such an extent that respectable newspaper correspondents are even more careful than usual to preserve their incognita. So notorious has the bogus letterwriter become that no genuine correspondent, halling from New York city, and representing any respectable newspaper, will accept from hotel proprietors any attentions that are not regularly paid for, and that are not accorded to the guests at large. If he should need such instruction-and his experience must be small indeed if he do-he is reminded before setting forth upon his travels that he is expected to pay his fare and for his board and lodging, and all other accommodations, as religiously as though he had no newspaper to back him. If he comply with these conditions and preserve intact the gentlemanly spirit, all is well; but if he goes back on his newspaper the waves of respectable Gothamite journalism close over him, and the return surf of Bohemianism claims him for its ALI BAHA.

FARRAGUT.

How the Admiral was Received at Sacramento. The Sacramento (Cal.) Union of July 27

A vast crowd of people assembled at the Central Pacific depot yesterday atternoon, to witness the arrival in the city of Admiral Farragut, the hero of New Orleans and Mobile who, it had been ascertained, was in the train due at 1-20 P. M. As the locomotive leading the train of the company o been ascertained, was in the train due at 1.20 P.
M. As the locomotive leading the train appeared in sight at that hour, the Union Boy, under command of Captain Siddons, spoke loudly in a salute of twenty-one guns. On the arrival of the train the Admiral, who was accompanied by his wife and a lady friend, was received by Mayor Swift and other Sacramentans. As he emerged from the car the crowd gave him three hearty cheers, and then three more "for the frigute Hartford." The distinguished traveller returned his thanks in trief tinguished traveller returned his thanks in brief remarks, expressing his appreciation of the honor conferred. He reminded his hearers that several years ago he had been a resident of California, and congratulated them upon the many improvements which had taken place in the city and State during the years which he had been absent. So far, Sacramento was the only place he had seen while on his present trip which reminded him of California as he remembered it. He hoped to be able in a few days to return to the city and spend a few days with his friends here, but at present he could but briefly thank them for their cordial welcome. At the conclusion of his remarks he was assisted to a carriage and conveyed to the Arcade Restaurant where in due season the Admiral's party and fifteen or twenty citizens sat down to a fine collation. At the proper time Mayor Swift offered a welcoming toast, to which the Admiral responded, expressing thanks for courtesies extended, and his determination in a few days to come up and view the town from one end to the General Redington was then called upon and made a few happy remarks. About three o'clock the party repaired to the landing of the San Francisco steamer, where the Yosemite. which had been delayed beyond her usual time of departure by direction of General Redington or the convenience of the Admiral, lay decorated with flags and streamers, awaiting his coming. As the boat swang around, the crowd assembled at the landing cheered the hero time and again. Admiral Farragut is in neight somewhat under the average, well built, comarkably active, bears every appearance of health, and look to be about fifty or fifty-five years of age, though he is in reality about seventy. His personal appearance is such that wherever met he would be noticed as a remark-

MORMON.

The Old Faith and the New Brighamite Tolera-tion.

The Corinne, Utah, Reporter of a late date ias the following:-A few days ago we mentioned the fact that William Alexander and David Hyrum, the younger sons of Joseph Smith, the Mormon prophet, were on their way to Salt Lake City to et up the standard of the reorganized or antipolygamy Church. A singular interest attaches to the name of David Hyrum. A few months efore Joseph's death he stated that "the man was not born who was to lead this people; but of Emma Smith should be born a son who would succeed in the Presidency after a season of disturbance." Joseph Smith was killed June 27, 1844, and the son, named from his father's direction David Hyrum, was born at the Mansion House, Nauvoo, on the 17th of the succeeding November. This prophecy is secretly dear to thousands of Mormons who are weary of the tyranny of Brigham Young and yet hold to their faith in Joseph A few days ago the young men reached Salt Lake City, and soon called upon Brigham Young, and announced their intention to organize their church at once, asking permission to defend their faith in the Tabernacle, proposing to argue with the Brighamites from the original Mormon books. We have but scaut re-ports of the interview, but it is said to have been very warm. Brigham was very angry at their presumption, and denied them the use of the Tabernacle, sending word at the same time to the bishops to shut them out of the ward meeting-houses. The brothers, at one point of the conversation, denied that their father ever practised polygamy, citing their mother's testimony, to which Brigham retorted r mother proved a thief," with much more of the sort. Be it remembered that the lady thus spoken of s the Electa Cyria, or "Elect Lady of God. Mormon theology, who was the glory of their early history. Like Pope Pagan, of the "Pilgrim's Progress," Brigham doubtless gnaws his nalls in vain rage that he cannot, as in former times, let loose the vengeance of his Nauvoo Legion upon these sectarians, and crush the rebellion in blood. If his power were now equal to his feelings, we should have repeated the story of the Morrisites, when a high civil func-

THE CONDITIONS OF HEALTH.-It is idle to expect health if the precautions necessary to secure it are neglected. The human organization is a delicate piece of mechanism, and requires as much intelligent care and watchfulness to keep it in order, as are requisite in the management of the most complicated combination of levers, wheels, and pinions.

At this season of the year the body is peculiarly sensitive because it is greatly weakened and relaxed by the continu ous heat. The skin, in summer, with its millions of pores wide open, is a very different sort of tegament from the compact fibrous covering which it becomes under the action of the winter's cold. The muscles, too, are comparatively flaceid, the nerves tremulous, the blood poor, and the whole frame less capable of enduring fatigue and resisting disease than in cool weather. These indications of a depressed condition of the vital forces are so many un-mistaliable hints that nature needs reinforcing.

Ordinary stimulants will not effect this object. They inflame and excite, but do not strengthen. The only pre-paration which can be depended upon to impart staminal vigor to the system, and enable it to endure the ordeal of the heated term without giving way under the pressure, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a tonic and corrective so pure, so harmless, so utterly free from the drawbacks which render many of the powerful astringents employed in medical practice more dangerous than the ailments they are employed to cure, that it may be administered without fear to the feeblest female invalid or the most delicate child. The cathartic and alterative vegetable ingredients, which are combined with those of a tonic nature in its composition, keep the bowels moderately free and per-fectly regular while the work of invigoration is going on. The finest blood deparents which the herbal kingdor affords are also among its components, so that it recruits. purifies, and regulates the system simultaneously.

MESSRS. FARREL, HERRING & CO., No. 629 Chesnnt Street, Philadelphia. Dear Sirs :- At the very destructive fire of Messrs, McKeen & Bingham's Saw Mill, which occurred on the evening of the 6th instant in this place, the Safe manufactured by you, belonging to the late firm of F. M. Bingham & Garrison, was in the building, and subjected to a very severe test, as the fire raged flercely for several hours; and so great was the heat that the brass plates were melted off, and to our great surprise, when the Safe was opened, we found all the books and papers uninjured.

Yours respectfully,
